Escalation Clauses in Cross Border Dispute Resolution: Why Your Client Wants Mediation

COURSE CLASSIFICATION: INTERMEDIATE

Thursday, June 22, 2017, 10:00 a.m. – 12:00 noon

Course 2513R Staff Contact: Angela Froelich (afroelich@floridabar.org)

Learn from your corporate clients about what they want and why. For those engaged in cross border practice whether from the standpoint of a transaction attorney or a litigator, whether in-house or outside counsel, join us for this important discussion of evolving trends in managing disputes more economically and efficiently. Learn new developments that may inform your drafting of dispute resolution clauses for cross border deals as well as your approach to resolving cross border disputes.

As more and more disputes are resolved through International Arbitration, more is understood about its pros and cons. Many corporations are finding success through mediation. Learn why and how mediation can help you better address the needs of your corporate clients. In addition to discussing the attributes of a workable escalation clause, this panel will also explore the role of outside and in-house counsel in cross border mediation.

Panel Chair: Ricardo J. Cata, Upchurch, Watson

Moderator: Professor Joan Stearns Johnsen, University of Florida Levin College of Law, Gainesville, FL

SPEAKERS

OLIVIER P. ANDRÉ is CPR's Vice President, International and Dispute Resolution Services. In this capacity, Mr. André is responsible for CPR's international activities, as well as international arbitration and mediation matters which are brought before CPR pursuant to its rules. He is involved in all aspects of the proceedings, including neutral selection, challenges, clause drafting assistance and procedural questions. Olivier is also responsible for Y-ADR – a program for young international dispute resolution practitioners – and the upcoming CPR International Mediation Competition to take place in São Paulo in May 2017. Olivier recently contributed to the drafting of the CPR European Mediation and ADR Practical Guide for Corporates, the CPR Administered Arbitration Rules and the CPR International Mediation Procedure (2017). He is a member of CPR's European Advisory Board and CPR's Brazil Advisory Board, a member of CPR's Arbitration Committee, a member of the International Commercial Disputes Committee – and of its cybersecurity working group – and an affiliate member of the Arbitration Committee of the New York City Bar Association. He started his legal career at Shearman & Sterling L.L.P. and at the ICC Court of International Arbitration in Paris. He has been trained as a mediator and studied law in France, Germany and in the U.S., where he obtained his Juris Doctor and where he is admitted to practice law in New York and Massachusetts. He is a CEDR accredited mediator and a dual citizen of the United States and of the European Union (France).

RICARDO CATA practiced as a civil litigator and trial lawyer in South Florida for 38 years. His mediation practice focuses on construction and design defects; commercial, franchise and contractual disputes; trademark infringement; cross-border disputes (in litigation or arbitration); aviation, maritime and cruise passenger claims; general, resort, product and premises liability; medical malpractice; and wrongful death. He is certified to mediate civil cases by the U.S. District Court, Southern and Middle Districts of Florida. Ricardo is a Florida Supreme Court Approved Arbitrator and a member of the American Arbitration Association's Mediator Panel, the American Arbitration Association's Roster of Neutrals and the ICDR Cruise Line and Seafarer Arbitrator Panel (CL & SAP). He also is a member of the CPR Panels of Distinguished Neutrals and the National Academy of Distinguished Neutrals (NADN). Ricardo has served as arbitrator in AAA commercial disputes. During his legal practice, Ricardo represented resorts and tour operators from Latin America in Florida's circuit and federal courts, obtaining dismissals on forum non conveniens or lack of personal jurisdiction. Ricardo also represented domestic and international manufacturers of products on claims of design and/or manufacturing defects and represented U.S. and Latin American clients in commercial and contractual disputes. He also represented clients in claims of design and construction defects, wrongful death suits, franchise litigation, maritime disputes, and medical and chiropractic malpractice suits. A native of Cuba, Ricardo is bilingual in Spanish and English, and has mediated in Spanish.
